HANDWRITING.—[50 marks.]

Time allowed—15 minutes.

Copy the following passage in your best handwriting. No special style of handwriting is required, but legibility, neatness and a sufficient speed are important.

How solitary now she sits by the great river, that once thronged city. Her gates are broken, and her streets are silent. Yet in olden time she was a queen, and the children of many lands came to do her homage. She was the nursing mother of our saints, and the teacher of our highest learning for a long six hundred years. The most ancient and the most accurate of the Annals of Erin were written in her halls. The sweetest of our old Gaelic poems were composed by her professors. The noblest youth of France and England crowded to her halls, and bore the renown of her holiness and learning to foreign lands. View it as you may, Clonmacnoise was the greatest of our schools in the past, as it is the most interesting of our ruins in the present. How well St. Ciaran chose the site of this monastic city in those turbulent and lawless days.
